About

The University of Pittsburgh Office for Investigator-Sponsored IND and IDE Support (O3IS) is a combined service of the Office of Clinical Research, Health Sciences, the Clinical and Translational Science Institute, and the Research Conduct and Compliance Office; established for the purpose of providing assistance to University researchers involved in the development and submission of investigator-sponsored Investigational New Drug (IND) applications and Investigational Device Exemptions (IDEs) for acceptance by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the conduct of clinical research studies under such FDA-accepted applications and exemptions.

The primary services offered by the O3IS include the following:

- Providing a centralized resource of information, expertise, and support related to addressing the complex regulatory requirements, obligations, and responsibilities that govern the submission of investigator-sponsored IND and IDE applications and the conduct of clinical investigations under such applications;
- Assisting University researchers in complying with the regulatory requirements and responsibilities associated with the conduct of clinical investigations under FDA-accepted IND and IDE applications; and
- Ensuring appropriate institutional oversight of commitments made under university-based IND and IDE applications.
